ERIE SHORE CONFERENCE

Midview holds off Ranger late challenge

Tim Gebhardt
The Chronicle-Telegram

GRAFTON — The final score at Midview Friday night was hardly surprising.

How it got that way, was.

Midview won the boys basketball game, 58-39, as expected, running the Middie record to 8-4 overall and 3-3 in the Erie Shore while North Ridgeville fell to 1-10 overall and 0-6 in the league.

But some of the events of the night left both Midview coach Ray Verba and Ranger boss Dan Rademaker scratching their heads.

At halftime, the Rangers were very much in the game, trailing by only three points, 28-25, and Rademaker had visions that an upset win was within reach.

But, as if someone placed the proverbial lid on the basket, the Rangers couldn't buy a basket in the third quarter. Ten shots went up. None fell. Only a lonely free throw by Dave Baker kept the Rangers from being shut-out over the first six and a half minutes of the half.

"We got open shots," said Rademaker. "We just couldn't stick them in the hole. I think we could have had success with the press, but we could never make any baskets to get in the press."

Meanwhile, Midview ran off 13 points before Baker finally found the bottom of the bucket from the field. As the two coaches gave instructions entering the final period, the lead had grown to 45-28. Midview had outscored the Rangers, 17-3, in the quarter as North Ridgeville was just one of 13 from the field.

Anthony Stacey quickly gave the Middies a 19-point cushion with the first basket of the final period when the Ranger press went to work cashing in on a dozen Middie turnovers, closing the margin to a scant eight points, 47-39, with better than half the period remaining breathing life back into the upset bid.

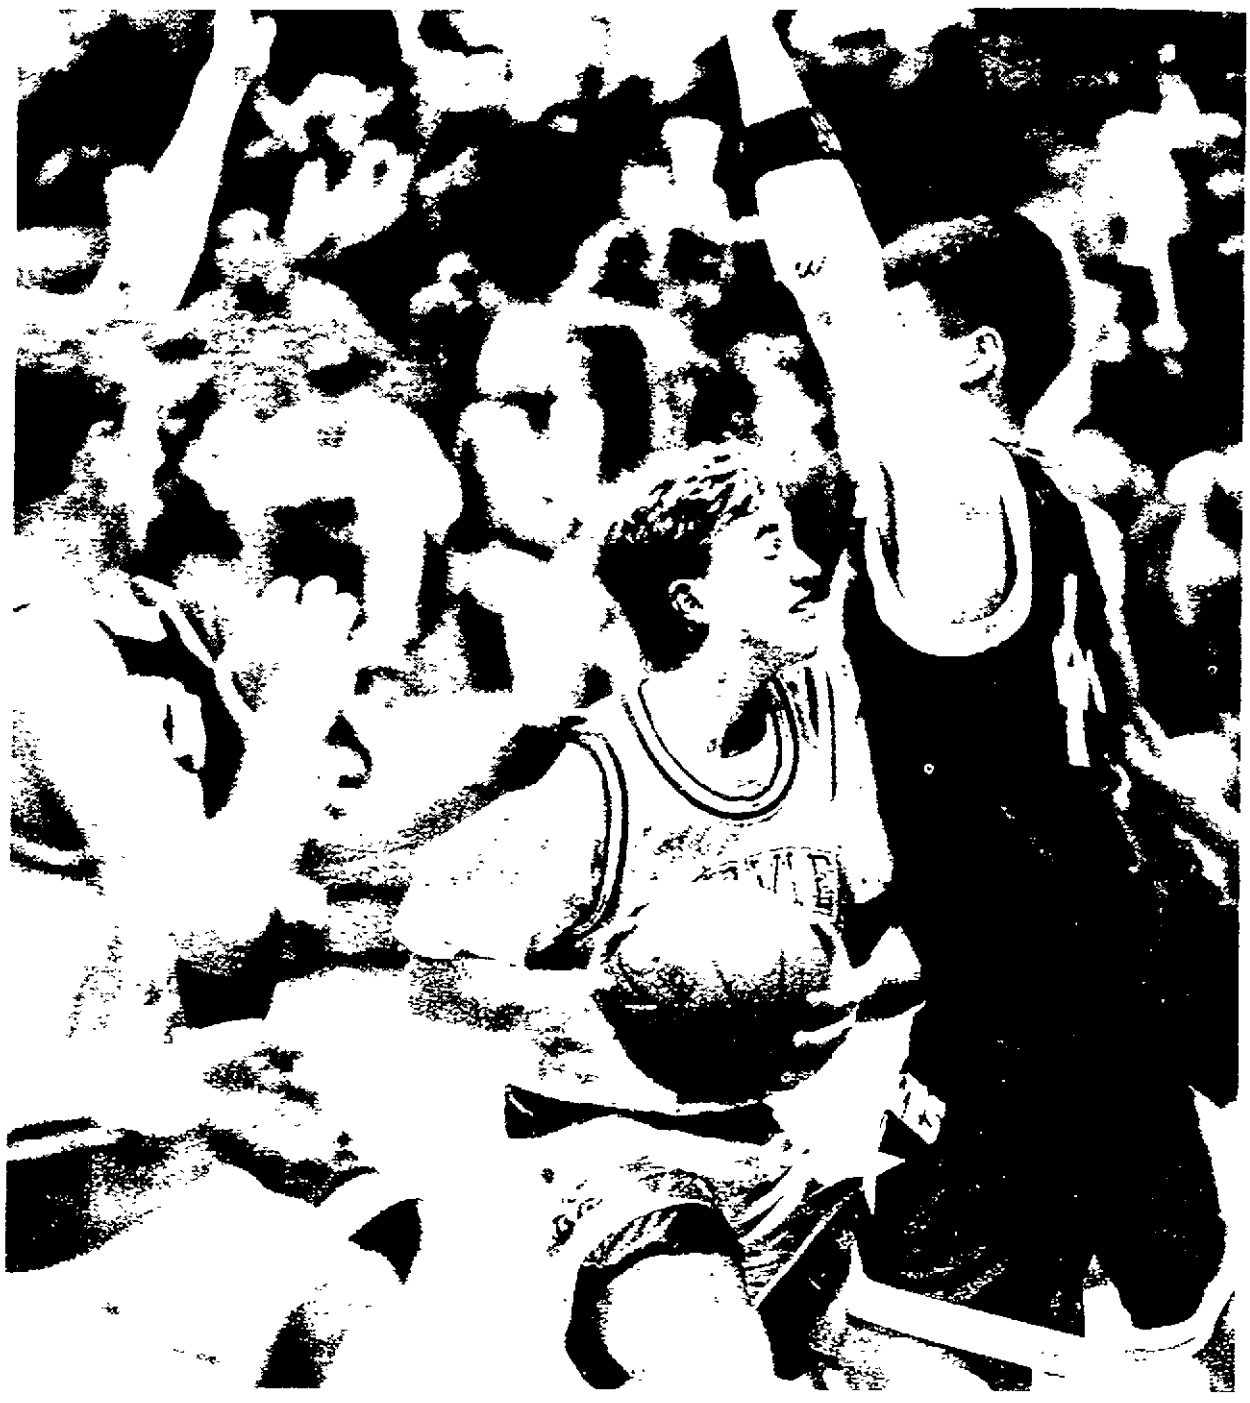

"We have these mental lapses," said Verba. "I don't know what it is. Things are going good and all of a sudden we get stupid. Turn the ball over. Throw passes to people who aren't looking. Try to dribble through the whole team. Silly, mental lapses."

SOUTHWESTERN CONFERENCE

Westlake towers over the SWC

OLMSTED FALLS — It's still relatively early in the Southwestern Conference race, making it premature to order the championship trophy.

But the Demons certainly should be browsing through the catalog right now after the way they looked in demolishing Olmsted Falls Friday night, and on the Bulldogs' home court at that.

The 72-52 victory in the boys basketball game was even more convincing than the final spread looks, keeping unbeaten Westlake a full game ahead of chief rival Amherst in the standings and knocking Olmsted Falls seemingly out of serious contention with three losses. With the season not yet at the halfway point the Bulldogs have enough time to get back into the race, but they are going to need help.

"It's in our hands," Westlake Coach Art Daniels said. "We hold our own destiny. We're still not near our potential, but tonight took a another big step up the ladder. This was the best full 32 minutes we've played all year."

Next week ends the first half and Westlake (9-1 overall) faces two major challenges in Avon Lake, like Olmsted Falls considered a contender in pre-season, and Amherst, the second place team. Win those two and the Demons can start picking out the trophy styles they like in the catalog.

In Olmsted Falls Friday night Westlake faced the second tallest team next to it in the league. The Demons' inside giant starters and top men off the bench of 6 foot 8, 6-6, 6-6, 6-4 and 6-4 faced the Bulldogs' 6-7, 6-7, and 6-6. Westlake won the rebound battle 45-37, and had six putback baskets as well as 13 layups, including a stuff by 6-8 Bret Fisher. Falls had only one putback and five layups.

But even more pleasing to Daniels was his outcourt shooting.

"Our strength is in our inside game, so people are going to start ganging up on us there. We've got to hit from the perimeter, and we did it tonight."

Westlake canned five from three-point range in just nine attempts. Falls hit six long bombs, but took 22 attempts.

The Demons took the lead for good at 8-6 and by early in the second quarter had the game well in hand. They shot a sizzling 49 per cent from the field to only 30 per cent for the Bulldogs and also had fewer turnovers, 16-19.

"That may have been the best defense put against us all year," Olmsted Falls Coach Pat Donahue said. "I think we are a good team, but we just didn't play a good game today. We got intimidated. But there's another nine games on the conference schedule. It's too early to concede anything."

Falls, 7-3 overall and 2-3 in the league, will play next Friday at Bay.

Why a business as big as ours runs a Yellow Page ad as small as this.

CHRONICLE-TELEGRAM 329-7000

When people start reading the Yellow Pages every day, we'll start placing big ads in them. Until then, the Yellow Pages are nothing more than a directory of names, phone numbers and addresses the average person uses infrequently—at best.

Your Yellow Pages salesperson can't tell you how many people are likely to see your ad every week in his directory. But we can tell you nearly 100,000 people use The Chronicle-Telegram everyday. And when your business advertises in The Chronicle, you can tell people about your competitive pricing, announce a new location or service, illustrate your clear advantage over the competition, etc. ... all the things you're not allowed to do in the Yellow Pages.

The Market You're Looking For Is Reading The Same Paper You Are.

Of course, there's another thing you cannot do in the Yellow Pages—you can't be flexible, you're stuck with the same ad for a year. So what do you do when you need to respond to the market? Or promote a special sale? Or build your image? You advertise in the newspaper.

Call us for a no-obligation assessment of your advertising opportunities with The Chronicle. Our number is in the Yellow Pages where it's always been, or you'll find us faster in the White Pages.
