ner. "I had to avoid the block and I had to make sure I came close."

Vega had been involved in a fender-bender accident Friday morning.

"Everything started so badly, I just knew that I'd have a great game," he said. " What a great feeling — all the excitement. To be the spoiler for Firelands is something that's going to snowball for us in the playoffs (sectional tournament). I'm going to be up late tonight."

"You have to give Avon a tremendous amount of credit," said Firelands coach Mike Horne. "Especially Steve Vega. He was spectacular tonight."

The win evened Avon's record at 10-10, 7-7 in the conference. Firelands, which finishes tonight with a non-conference game, is 14-5, 11-3.

Vega and Firelands' point guard Mike Collier put on a spectacular battle. Collier had more points, 33, hitting 6-of-14 3-point shots, while Vega tallied 27. But Vega drove Firelands out of its man-for-man defense with his penetration and passes.

That added up to a big difference in free throw attempts. Including the technical, 26 fouls were called on Firelands and Avon sank 29-of-39 to provide the margin of victory.

"That was a big key — getting them in foul trouble early," said Kudela. "During one of our timeouts, I told them we had to go hard on offense. If we didn't get the basket, at least we could make a trip to the foul line."

The fouls did more than that for Avon. Firelands lost high-scoring Nick Thornsbury with five fouls with 3:28 left in regulation play. Josh Tansey fouled out two minutes later.

Firelands was already shorthanded because 6-4 Jason Sapienza hit the floor in the first quarter and cut the back of his head, a wound that required stitches.

"We had different guys on the floor who were not used to playing this much in a pressure game," Horne said.

With Thornsbury out, Collier had to shoulder the load. He scored his team's last nine points and was the only Falcon to make a basket from the floor in the last 7:47, including overtime.

"Mike Collier is a tremendous player," Horne said. "But he can't do it alone. We had to have others step up, but nobody was doing it."

Collier hit two NBA-distance 3-pointers, the latter tying the game at 69, to keep Firelands in contention until Vega's winning basket.

Another key was the last two minutes of the third quarter. Firelands held a 45-38 lead with 2:16 to play, but Avon made a strong run with a 2-2-1 zone press.

"The box press really helped us," Kudela said.

Firelands still led 47-36 with 1:01 left in the quarter, but Josh Guerrieri scored, Nick Snavely sank two free throws and, after a steal, Vega made a 3-point play.

Avon carried the momentum into the fourth quarter and took a 52-51 lead after two minutes.

After that, the lead changed hands four times and there were five ties. Both teams missed chances to win in regulation time.

When Collier tied the game 69-69 with his final 3-pointer with 28 seconds left in overtime, Avon held the ball and Vega got off his big shot.

"I didn't want us to make a mistake and give the game away," Kudela said.

Vega made sure of it.

were available to coach Joe Harris.

"If I would have had them, it could have made a difference, but we dug ourselves a hole," said Harris. "The thing that hurt us were those missed layups in the first quarter. We came out like a rubber band — we were tight."

Oberlin made its run in the third period behind the hot hand of Jeff Chambers. Chambers hit four quick baskets that had the Indians just seven points down, 50-43. Oberlin had several other chances to pull even closer, but a missed three, a missed layup and Mario Gibbs' fourth foul breathed new life into West. Chambers and Gibbs combined for 31 of Oberlin's points.

West wasn't at full strength either. Senior center Brian Jenkins played sparingly due to a bout with the flu, but West's juniors — Jakanda Dickerson, Marlon Wade and Andre Taylor — all played very well. They combined to hit all six of their free throw opportunities.

In the junior varsity contest, Oberlin jumped out to a 21-0 lead after one period and coasted to a 67-29 victory. Jermaine Holt scored 13 for Oberlin and Jose Gonzalez added 11. Jermele Nolen had 10 for West.

Oberlin (10-9 overall) continues its busy schedule tonight at Mansfield St. Peter before traveling to Wooster on Monday to open Division III tournament play against Chippewa. West will have the week off before starting Division II tournament play next Saturday against the Wednesday night Avon Lake-Brookside winner at Admiral King.
