GIRLS DIVISION I SECTIONAL BASKETBALL

Bears stun Meteors in opener

BOB FORTUNA
Plain Dealer Reporter

There's a reason sectional tournament time is called the second season. Take for instance yesterday's girls Division I basketball tournament opener at Medina.

Midpark had beaten Pioneer Conference foe North Royalton twice during the regular season. The Meteors' 56-32 rout seven days before appeared to give them the thumb's up the third time around.

Yeah, right. Bolstered by a 7-0 run in the final three minutes, North Royalton prevailed, 60-54, and made Midpark the tournament's first upset victim.

The Bears' (14-7) reward is a sectional title game against No. 2-seeded Padua (17-2) on Wednesday at 8 p.m.

"We kept saying the third time was going to be the charm," said Bears sophomore guard Megan Wydra, who finished with a team-high 18 points despite playing on a less-than-healthy knee. "I just think it came down to who wanted it

The Bears trailed, 43-35, with less than a minute remaining in the third quarter, but 3-pointers by Wydra and Christine Britten cut their deficit to 43-41 and began an 11-0 run that gave North Royalton a 46-43 lead early in the fourth quarter.

Leslie Clark's three-point play and 10-foot jumper capped the rally in a game filled with scoring streaks.

"It's tough playing like that, because you get a little frustrated when your shots aren't falling, and rebounds are falling into the other team's hands," Wydra said.

A 3-pointer by Midpark junior Stacy Rinas tied the game at 50 with 2:51 left in the game, but Wydra responded with a 3-pointer and a 5-foot bank shot off a drive as the Bears scored seven straight points to take the lead for good.

Clark finished with 14 points; Katie Mastrodonato had 12 points, 13 rebounds and one blocked shot; and Britten had 10 points for the Bears.

"We started getting a few more people involved in the offense," North Royalton coach Dean Chuppa said. "Everyone knows Megan's going to do a number of things, but then Leslie [Clark] started stroking some shots in the end, and Katie [Mastrodonato] was big inside."

"I was worried when Jill [Quayle] fouled out. But we had Kaitlyn [Stiles] come in, and she gives us a big body to help out on the boards because most of the time, we're playing with nine guards."

Jacy Schulz and Rinas scored 19 and 14 points, respectively, for Midpark (16-5), and Lyndsay Berry had seven rebounds and two blocked shots before fouling out with 3:59 left.

"Our season's been streaky," Midpark coach Theresa McNamara said.

"We're just not consistent enough, right now, to win those big games."

BOYS BASKETBALL

Bulldogs find the fire, romp

EDDIE DWYER
Plain Dealer Reporter

Olmsted Falls coach Pat Donahue will be the first to tell you his team had not played well the past few weeks.

There was the close call at North Olmsted, the loss at Austintown Fitch and a couple of sloppy victories.

What Donahue and his staff have been waiting on is for the passion to return.

Last night, in front of a large and enthusiastic crowd at Olmsted Falls, they got their wish.

The Bulldogs, playing a near flawless game at both ends of the court, overwhelmed Strongsville, 89-54, in a nonleague boys basketball game.

Olmsted Falls, the seventh-ranked Division I team in the state by the Associated Press, improved to 18-1. Strongsville, which was coming off a sweep of Pioneer Conference champion North Royalton, slipped to 12-7.

"It couldn't have come at a better time," Donahue said.

#5 OLMSTED FALLS
STRONGSVILLE

"This is the way we're going to need to play in the tournament if we want to survive."

The Bulldogs, who can tie a regular-season school record of 19 victories by defeating Amherst at home Friday, took command in the second quarter last night.

Strongsville, on the strength of consecutive 3-pointers by junior forward Kyle Koncz, took a 21-20 lead early in the second quarter.

It was at that point, however, that the Bulldogs unleashed a relentless trapping defense.

Contesting every pass and dribble and controlling both backboards, Olmsted Falls went on a 22-2 run.

Junior forward Jamar Scales got things started with a steal and a layup. Junior forward Steve Gansney sandwiched two free throws and a putback around a 3-pointer by senior forward Tim Curran and, after a steal and a layup by junior guard Dan Binggeli, the Bulldogs led, 31-21, with just over three minutes to go in the first half.

After back-to-back 3-pointers by Binggeli and a 3-pointer by Binggeli, Olmsted Falls had extended its lead to 42-23. With Gansney scoring 17 of his game-high 22 points, the Bulldogs led, 45-25, at halftime.

"Could they have played any better?" said Strongsville coach Joe Lynch, who watched Olmsted Falls start the second half with a 13-0 run that featured 3-pointers by Binggeli, Curran and Gansney.

The Bulldogs, the top seed at the Midview sectional-district, finished with five players in double figures and 14 3-pointers. Gansney led the way with four 3-pointers, and Binggeli and sophomore forward Pat Braddick each had three.

THE JAMES JOURNAL

Today's update on LeBron James and the St. Vincent-St. Mary boys basketball team:

Today's game: James has a chance to catch a legend today when the Irish (15-1) play Kettering After (11-7) at the University of Dayton in a game that was supposed to be shown on ESPN, but was pulled off the schedule by SVSM officials earlier in the week. This will be the final regular-season game that James plays because he must sit out next week's season finale against Toledo Scott as per a judge's ruling.

What's up: James needs 20 points to pass former Midwestern, Ohio State and NBA star Jerry Lucas and move into seventh place on Ohio's all-time scoring list. Lucas has 2,460 points.

What's next: Because he must sit out against Toledo Scott on Feb. 23, James will not play again until the Irish play in the sectional tournament at Barberton in two weeks.

OUTDOORS NOTEBOOK

Steelhead trout's eating habits baffling to fisheries biologists

D'ARCY EGAN

Can there be too many steelhead trout swimming in Lake Erie?

Fisheries biologists at the Fairport Harbor Fisheries Station are trying to find out. While anglers can't get enough of the big, silvery fish, there is always the risk that they might someday eat themselves out of house and home.

"We're doing a pilot study on the eating habits of steelhead trout to pinpoint just what they prefer," said the Ohio Division of Wildlife's Kevin Kayle, who has guided the steelhead trout program since its inception. "We're not at risk right now, or in the foreseeable future, of having to reduce our stockings. There is plenty of forage in Lake Erie for them."

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources trimmed its stocking schedule in 1999 after a few years of mediocre salmon and trout fishing. Alewives are the primary forage for the big game fish, and they were disappearing.

With reduced stockings, the Lake Michigan fishing improved.

"Lake Erie steelhead trout are generalists when it comes to their feeding habits," said Kayle.

"The most common source of food checked last summer was the spiny water flea. Of fish species, smelt was the top food choice, followed by emerald shiners."

Trout feed on bugs when they move into the streams. While in Lake Erie, they still feed on insects, snacking on hatching mayflies and even the Asian lady beetles that littered Lake Erie last year.

In the Fairport Harbor area, steelhead trout were often easier to catch than walleyes last summer. That puzzled biologists, who wondered if walleyes were trying to compete with the more aggressive trout for the same food.

"We want to examine the diet of both species this year by checking fish caught on charter fishing boats throughout the summer," Kayle said. "By checking trout and walleyes caught on the same day from the same area, we can do a head-to-head comparison of their diets."

Walleyes may be difficult to manage, with weather during the spring spawning season determining their success. Steelhead trout are much easier to manipulate, with the ODOW rearing about 400,000 trout at its Castalia State Fish Hatchery to stock in the rivers each spring.

Pheasants on wing: The lengthy season at Ohio's bird hunting preserves is winding down. Steve McMillen at Wooster Hunt Club, which is west of Wooster on South Funk Road, reports he has a lot of pheasants for the final few weeks of the season. Call 330-262-4107.

Park officers honored: Cleveland Lakefront State Park officers Raymond Makkos, Keenan Cook and park officer specialist Carlos Toledo were honored this week for rescuing a man from Lake Erie on Aug. 22. They received the Lifesaving Commendation Award from Ohio State Parks.

Trust N Luck wins Derby prep

From wire reports

Ralph Ziadie arrived in the United States from Jamaica nearly 25 years ago with the same goal as every other thoroughbred trainer — to saddle a horse in the Kentucky Derby.

It looks as if Ziadie is headed to Louisville on the first Saturday in May with local hero Trust N Luck.

Leading every step of the way, Trust N Luck ran away with the $200,000 Fountain of Youth Stakes yesterday at Gulfstream Park in Hallandale Beach, Fla. He won by 5 1/4 lengths over 30-1 long shot Supah Blitz.

"I wouldn't go to the Kentucky Derby just to go," the 54-year-old Ziadie said. "I wanted to have a horse that could win it. I still think that way."

He clearly thought that way when he first laid on eyes on Trust N Luck. With 74-year-old owner Einar Robsham's OK, the trainer bought the chestnut colt for $200,000 at the Ocala 2-year-olds in training sale.

After winning four of his first eight starts — all at Calder Race Course in Miami — Trust N Luck stepped up in class for his 3-year-old debut. And he won the first Grade 1 stakes of the season for horses his age.

"I know this horse is a very good horse," Ziadie, who has never been to the Derby before, even as a fan, said. "I was real confident."

Trust N Luck, the 9-2 fourth choice in the field of eight, will train next for the Florida Derby on March 15. Ridden by Cornelio Velasquez, the colt covered the 1 1/16 miles in 1:43.33. In winning $120,000, the son of champion sprinter Montbrook boosted his earnings to $502,800.

Midway Cat was third, followed by Holy Bull Stakes winner Office Wild, Whywhywhy, Ten Cents a Shine (an Ohio bred), Conservation and Ozzie Cat. Seek Gold was scratched.

In the $150,000 Hutcheson Stakes, a 7-furlong Derby prep run earlier on the card, favored Lion Tamer pulled away with authority inside the eighth pole for a six-length victory over Strength Within. The winning time was a solid 1:22.60.

Oaklawn: Red n'Gold rallied in the mud and rain to beat Reason to Talk by 2 1/4 lengths in the $50,000 Pippin Stakes for fillies and mares in Hot Springs, Ark.

Red n'Gold, ridden by Terry Thompson and trained by Robert Holthus, ran 1 1/16 miles in 1:48.1 and paid $11.80, $6.60 and $7.80.

POST TIME

Plain Dealer handicapper Bob "Railbird" Roberts, with $1,000 of company funds tucked in his Racing Forms and track programs, is taking on the pari-mutuel world — 24 hours a day. Not only is he betting the races at Thistledown and Northfield, but simulcasts from tracks around the clock and globe.

Today's plays: Open in the fourth at Aqueduct by taking Bill Record first and second with $1 exacta tickets to all seven rivals. Do the same in the fifth race at Aqueduct with Look Out Evan. Total wagered: $34.

24-hour bankroll update: The Railbird, already trying to get even (and it's only February), bet three medium-priced horses yesterday. They all bowed to favorites. "Chalk horses," said Roberts, cursing his luck. "When you need a favorite, you can't find him with a flashlight. And when I try to beat one of them, they run like the second coming of Secretariat." The kitty, cold, hurt and unhappy, falls to $819.30.
