BOYS BASKETBALL DIVISION II DISTRICT SEMIFINAL

SVSM says goodnight to Hoban

PAT GALBINCEA
Plain Dealer Reporter

Watching LeBron James and the St. Vincent-St. Mary basketball team play is similar to attending a Beatles concert in the 1960s.

Of course, crowds screamed so loudly at Beatles concerts you couldn't hear their music.

Nor can you hear yourself think when James performs his music as he did last night in SVSM's 72-33 Division II district semifinal victory over Hoban at the University of Akron's JAR Arena.

But you don't have to hear to enjoy a James concert. All you have to do is watch and enjoy.

It was 13 seconds into yesterday's game when the 6-7 junior sank a 3-pointer from outside the right circle to give the Irish a lead they never came close to relinquishing.

ST. VINCENT-ST. MARY	72
HOBAN	33

James went 4-for-6 from 3-point range and finished with 22 points.

"When I feel good, I'll try shooting 3-pointers," James said. "If I had missed those first two shots, that would have ended my long-range shooting.

"Before the game, I saw Hoban players wearing those 'The Chosen One' T-shirts. I just got a big laugh out of it. ... I wasn't upset." The words "The Chosen One" appeared on a recent Sports Illustrated cover featuring James.

With 1:20 left in the first quarter, SVSM sophomore guard Corey Jones lobbed a pass near the basket which James grabbed on the alley-oop and slammed home.

Defending James did little good because seconds later, he dribbled down court, then passed to wide open teammate Dru Joyce.

The junior guard buried his 3-point field goal.

Little went right for Hoban, which bows out with a 19-4 record.

Before the second quarter started, Knights coach T.K. Griffith threw his coat down when officials did not call a foul on James against guard June Wilder.

Joyce made both technical foul shots, giving SVSM an 18-5 first-quarter lead.

Perhaps the most electrifying moment in the game came with 4:21 left in the third quarter.

James drove to an open basket and flipped it hard off the glass. Romeo Travis, a 6-6 junior forward who was trailing the play, grabbed the ball and dunked it.

For his unusual assist, James acknowledged the deafening roar of the crowd by running a victory lap around the court.

"I saw Romeo trailing so I tried to get the ball to him," James said. "That was the best way. ... I try to get other players into the scoring act."

The game was a physical one in parts of the first half. At one point, Griffith brought seldom-used Ryan Thompson off the bench to foul James.

Thompson did bump James, and James' surrogate father, Eddie Jackson, had to be escorted from the arena after approaching Griffith and screaming at him.

"I wanted a one-and-one foul-line situation," Griffith said. "Making free throws are not James or SVSM's strength. We didn't want to hurt LeBron ... we respect his ability too much.

"It's tough to play SVSM. No team is more athletic than they are. The truth is, we needed everything to go our way to lose close. We're not good enough to beat them."

SVSM (19-3) plays the winner of tonight's Central Hower-Buchtel game.

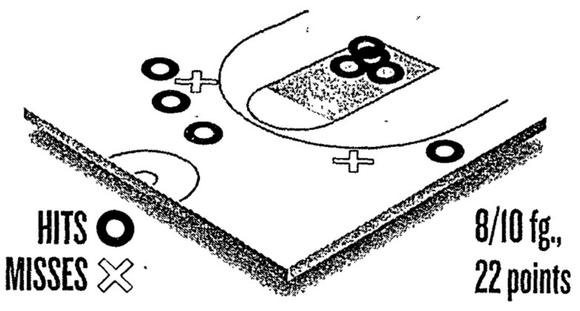

"Both teams are dangerous, so we're prepared for whoever wins," James said. "But we'll be there watching."

Travis had 15 points for the winners and Joyce 10. Hoban was led by junior guard June Wilder with 12 points.

Orange serves up some grit

Lions, Tigers advance to final

MIKE PETICCA
Plain Dealer Reporter

Sometimes it takes a subpar physical performance for a basketball team to demonstrate its other qualities.

"It was a gritty effort by our kids," Orange coach Ron Hoyt said after the Lions edged Olmsted Falls, 61-56, in a Division II district semifinal game last night at Solon.

"We take a lot of grief sometimes because people say we get by on talent. But in this game, we got by on grit."

"Grit" had a capable partner in Kendall Chones, the Lions' 6-6 senior forward.

Chones scored 25 points on 10-of-15 shooting and grabbed 15 rebounds as second-seeded Orange (19-4) advanced to Saturday night's district championship game against first-seeded Warrensville Heights (22-1).

Warrensville defeated fourth-seeded Kenston, 70-58, in the second game of last night's doubleheader.

Orange, ranked 10th in The Plain Dealer's Top 25 seven-county poll, couldn't shake Olmsted Falls (17-5) until Kyle Chones closed the scoring on two free throws with 14 seconds left. Kyle Chones, 6-5, had 13 points and 12 rebounds, and the shortest of the Chones' triplets, 6-4 Kameron, contributed nine points and nine rebounds.

Olmsted Falls, the third seed and ranked 19th by The Plain Dealer, lists all five of its starters as guards. Each stands 6-2.

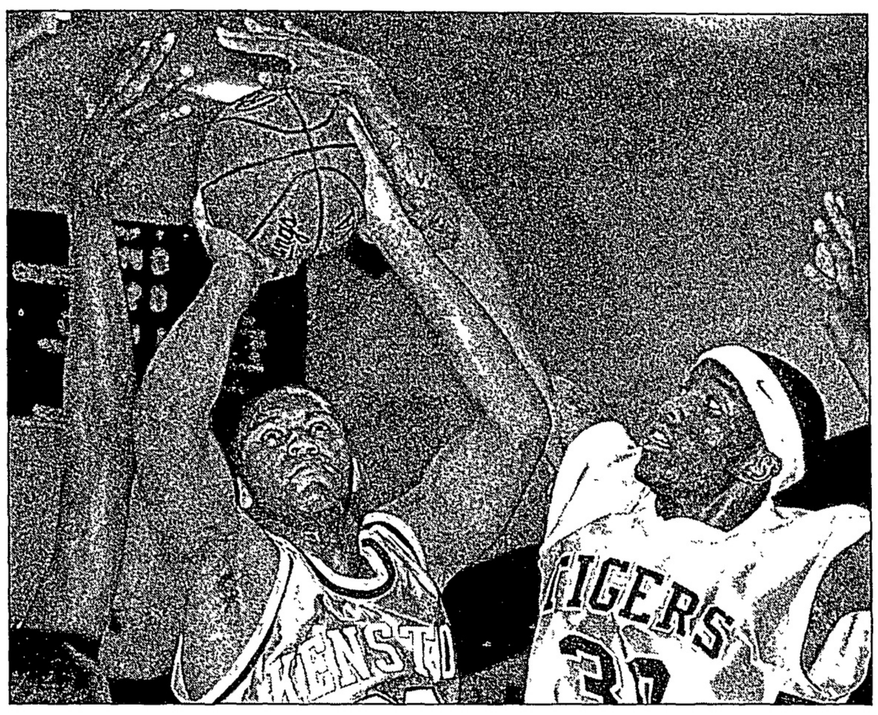

"We knew coming in that they were a smaller team," said Kendall Chones, who is averaging 23 points and 12 rebounds. "We like to pound it inside, but teams know that Kyle, Kameron and [point guard] Craig Fuller can shoot it from the outside.

"When we weren't hitting our outside shots, we got the ball inside and I tried to dominate."

Orange, one of the area's premier 3-point shooting teams, made 1 of 16 3-point attempts — a shot by Kyle Chones that put the Lions ahead, 43-35.

The Bulldogs stayed close thanks to Neal Saluja (18 points), Dan Binggeli (15 points) and Tim Curran (10 points, 13 rebounds).

"Everyone kind of counted us out," Saluja, one of two Olmsted Falls seniors, said of the Bulldogs' season. "We pride ourselves on playing hard and together. We came into the season inexperienced and small. We proved everyone wrong like we do year after year."

Warrensville Heights' Roderic Wilson gets one of his five blocks last night on a shot attempt by Kenston's Joe Motley during the Tigers' 70-58 victory.

Warrensville Heights 70, Kenston 58 The Tigers are ranked second by The Plain Dealer and in the state poll, and they looked every bit that good as they took a 29-9 lead in the game's first 10 minutes.

Guard Demetrius Johnson totaled 15 points and 11 assists for the Tigers, and backcourt partner Cerrone Edwards had 13 points and seven assists. Guard Rian Powell scored 12 points, and forwards Darnell James (12 points, 10 rebounds) and Roderic Wilson (five blocked shots) played superb inside defense.

Warrensville coach Dennis Chimes said the key to victory was "the intensity on the defensive end. We went after them. We rotated well. They couldn't drive the center against us and we cut off the baseline. And we boxed out."

Guard Matt Phillips scored 19 points for Kenston (16-7). Forwards Bob Dubovec (12), Joe Motley (11) and Ben Wilson (10) also scored in double figures for the Bombers.

Johnson canned two 3-pointers in the game's first 45 seconds and Edwards hit three 3-pointers in the first 11 minutes.

Warrensville led, 66-44, with five minutes left before Kenston made a late charge.

Bombers turn back Newbury

From staff reports

The Windham Bombers held the hot hand in the early going last night and it was enough to vault them into the district finals.

On the strength of a big first quarter, the Bombers turned back Newbury, 85-74, in a Division IV boys basketball district semifinal game at Cardinal.

Windham, which outscored the Black Knights, 27-14, in the first eight minutes, will take a 20-2 record into tomorrow's district championship game at Cardinal. The second-seeded Bombers will face top-seeded Bristol (20-1) at 7 p.m.

Leading the way for Windham was 6-6 sophomore center Greg McDivitt. McDivitt led five Bombers in double figures with 22 points. Newbury (11-11) got a game-high 30 points from Chuck Rauch.

Arcs await Hall's status

From staff reports

Brush High Athletic Director Dave Allenick said it's unknown if Arcs standout senior forward Roy Hall Jr. will play in tonight's Division I district semifinal game against Warren Harding. Brush (16-5) and Warren Harding (19-3) tip off at 6:30 p.m. at Cleveland South.

Hall, an All-Ohio selection last season and an Ohio State football recruit as a wide receiver; severed the tip of a finger on his left hand during a woodworking class early last week. He did not dress for last weekend's sectional final against Garfield Heights.

Allenick said Hall did practice "a little" this week, but was unable to go all-out with his ballhandling and shooting.

Tourney canceled: The Josh Miller Memorial youth wrestling tournament scheduled for Sunday at Barberton High's Purple Palace has been canceled because of a bacterial meningitis case at the school.

Athletic Director Terry Presto said the tournament will not be rescheduled and tourney officials are working on refunding entry fees.

Fallon decides to head south

From staff reports

Strongsville midfielder Amy Fallon has signed a national letter of intent to attend the University of North Carolina at Wilmington to play women's soccer.

Fallon, who also considered Ohio University and Kent State, chose Wilmington after visiting the campus and meeting with the coaching staff.

"Amy was our first commitment in our 2002 recruiting class, and I am very excited that she will be a part of our 2002 squad," Wilmington coach Paul Cairney said.

SCOUTING GIRLS REGIONAL BASKETBALL

Division IV

Where: Massillon Perry High School, 3737 13th St. S.W., Perry Township. Call 330-478-6159.
Pairings: Today's semifinals — Mansfield St. Peter's (23-0) vs. Mogadore (17-6), 6:15 p.m.; Leetonia (18-5) vs. Windham (17-6), 8 p.m. Finals — 7:30 p.m. Saturday.
Notable: Hooray for the Portage County League! Mogadore and Windham have made the PCL proud with two representatives in this regional. Mogadore has had a dream season. The Wildcats graduated most of their starters from last year, so they were expected to take a tumble this season. That has hardly been the case, and if Mogadore finds a way to sneak past regionals, George Tompkins will become a legitimate candidate for Coach of the Year. As for Windham, the Bombers have one of the state's better players in Colleen McGuire (21.9 points per game, 9.9 rebounds per game). She gets more than enough help from teammate Ali Roach (11.9 points per game). Can Windham get to Saturday's finals? Probably. Can Mogadore? Well, stranger things have happened.
